*Yet the wave was sweet
where I dived and swam as a child,
and when, a young man,
I looked for patterns in pebbles,
seeking rhythms,
the Old Man of the Sea said to me:
"I am your land;
perhaps I am no one,
yet I can become what you wish."*

From the 'Three Secret Poems'
by George Seferis.
